

Stay Connected in Your ‘Office Away From Home’ While Exploring The Globe on The World

MIRAMAR, FLORIDA – The ability to ‘stay connected’ through reliable phone and Internet capabilities in shipboard home offices allows Residents of The World, the largest privately owned residential yacht on earth, to effectively conduct business from the comfort of their Residence while exploring the vibrant cultures and thrilling destinations on their continuous global journey.

Internet, telephone and broadcast services on The World allow many entrepreneurial Resident owners to continue to efficiently run their businesses from wherever the Ship happens to be, whether it’s sailing the pristine waters of Antarctica, passing through Norwegian fjords or navigating the beautiful Seychelles islands in the Indian Ocean. For some Residents, knowing that they can host a conference call, check e-mail or conduct important Web-based research from virtually anywhere on the planet from their “office away from home” was a pre-requisite before even considering joining the community. Imagine operating your company from the privacy and convenience of your home office while gazing out your living room window at the exotic coastline of Borneo.

Additional ‘stay connected’ benefits afforded by this unique and exclusive lifestyle include:

- Many Residences feature home offices so Residents can easily store important documents and business equipment, which is difficult to near impossible when traveling conventionally.
- For Residents with international business contacts, The World serves as a convenient and fascinating venue for meetings, cultural experiences and entertainment.
- Beyond doing business, Residents stay in contact with friends and family members back home, sharing stories of their latest global adventures.

The high degree of dependable communications capabilities aboard The World means life as Residents like it remains uninterrupted. They can review business plans before embarking on a private, behind-the-scenes visit to a 15th century English castle, examine contracts before heading off to hear a local expert lecture on art history or meet with international business associates after – or during – a round of golf on a South African course.
