TRAVEL GEMS

From a secluded Vietnamese getaway to a cruise across the globe, we present a round up of our top suggestions around the world to evoke your inner wanderlust

SECLUSION BY THE BAY

The recently opened Anantara Quy Nhon Villas are flanked by mountains overlooking the Bay of Quy Nhon. 26 villas dot seven acres of lush landscaping fronting a private cove, each with its own cantilevered private pool fringed by the verdant jungle, providing guests with a luxurious castaway sanctuary. The service level is what one would expect from the Anantara, with an extraordinary level of personalization. Guests can choose from a range of activities like private dining experiences featuring fresh seafood, gourmet street eats, hot pots and island picnics, beachside martial arts, water sports, local excursions to surrounding ruins, fisherman's villages and uninhabited islands just off the coast, as well as Vietnamese cooking classes and much more. The luxurious hillside jungle spa with picturesque views of the bay incorporates organic ingredients from the gardens, like lemongrass and ginger. The couple's treatment suite provides the perfect escape, with an alfresco cliffside pavilion complete with an oversized tub for a coconut milk bath. anantara.com

AT HOME ON THE SEAS

The seas' largest privately-owned residential yacht The World will embark on an extraordinary journey in 2019, taking residents to 91 ports of call across the Indian Ocean, Southeast Asia, China, Japan, Europe, India and the High Arctic. With 165 residences on board, families can tailor their expedition to suit their needs, blending iconic metropolises with off-the-grid destinations. The itinerary includes two expeditions for in-depth journeys into two extraordinary regions, both accompanied by a team of experts. In January, the ship set sail in the Indian Ocean and visited Madagascar and Aldabra of the Seychelles islands, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Come late summer, the ship will sail 3,500 miles along the northern coastline of Canada and Alaska. aboardtheworld.com

EXPLORING NEW ZEALAND IN STYLE

Renowned for its untouched landscapes and otherworldly nature, New Zealand has long been one of the most enticing destinations. Now, the Lindis Group has set out to help travelers discover the islands in style. A new ultra-luxury boutique hotel and residence group, each of the three properties in the portfolio is located in a stunning setting, be it the luxurious The Lindis lodge in Ahuriri Valley, the Chalet New Zermatt near Queenstown or the Paroa Bay Winery in the Bay of Islands. Whether visiting a single property or touring the best the country has to offer, each of these luxurious venues provide the perfect launch pad from which one can soak in New Zealand's pristine surrounds. thelindisgroup.com

REDISCOVERING A CLASSIC DESTINATION

Setting out to present luxury travel experiences that are guest-focused within this classic travel destination, Tuscany Again seeks to create an authentic story for each guest, revealing Tuscany in an entirely new way, from behind-the-scenes glimpses into the hidden workshops and private domains of passionate experts and artisans to exploring unknown corners and back streets of the region's famous cities. The custom itineraries provide even seasoned visitors to the region with a fresh new perspective, going beyond simple sightseeing and becoming an unforgettable holistic voyage into Tuscany's beauty, history and tradition. tuscanayagain.org

THE QUINTESSENTIAL ARCTIC LODGE

In the northern reaches of Finnish Lapland, Octola lodge harmoniously combines modern architectural trademarks with the rustic feeling of a wilderness cabin and the service of a luxury hotel. Wilderness guides will take guests on expeditions through the frozen landscapes, while back at the lodge, world-class chefs provide for ample sustenance, with a strong focus on Nordic cuisine and ingredients local to the area. Octola provides guests with a unique chance to connect with nature, and every space within the lodge reflects the respect the owner has for the Arctic landscape. The lodge is accessible by helicopter, snowmobile or car, but the privacy here is second to none. On behalf of each guest, a generous donation is made to the Private Wilderness Fund to help protect Arctic wildlife. octola.com
