

The World*, Residences at Sea – A One-of-a-Kind Ship

FORT LAUDERDALE, FLORIDA – The World is the largest private residential yacht on earth where its Residents travel the globe without ever leaving home. This community at sea remains the only private residential mega yacht in operation today having visited over 1,000 ports of call in more than 150 countries on all seven continents. With a continuous worldwide itinerary that enables the vessel to span the globe every two to three years, the Ship is a complete floating city, equipped with high-end facilities and luxurious amenities that create an intimate, refined atmosphere for its Resident owners. The strikingly beautiful and well-appointed Ship promises personalized, anticipatory service customized to its Resident's preferences in a warm and inviting ambience much like that of a private yacht, well-staffed private home, or exclusive country club. The World is a unique combination of six-star hotel with luxury services and amenities and private mega yacht.

The Lifestyle

A lifestyle aboard The World offers opportunities to travel and explore to the planet's most exotic and well-known destinations as well as to lesser known and more remote locales with other adventure seekers, all from the comfort of your own private Residence. Spend the day exploring and return to the comforts of home. You'll sleep in your own bed surrounded by family photos, your own cherished artwork and furniture, and other personal possessions. No packing or unpacking needed, not to mention you'll be pampered from sunup to sundown by knowledgeable and experienced staff who know your personal preferences. Every few days you'll walk out your front door to a new and exciting part of the world. It's the ultimate adventure in total luxury.

The Community

This exclusive community enjoys the ultimate combination of luxury travel with world-class dining, custom destination experiences, onboard programming, expeditions, overland journeys, and enriching cultural events – all designed to 'bring the destination alive'. Esteemed lecturers, Nobel Laureates, and honored speakers quench Residents' thirst for learning on myriad topics. This unique lifestyle fosters a warm and welcoming atmosphere, a sense of community, and the creation of lasting friendships. Residents form strong bonds with one another, often based on similar interests like diving, photography, food and wine, books, golf, fitness and more.

The Journey

The World's Captains and Residents collectively determine the Ship's yearly itinerary based on the best sea routes and Residents' personal interests. Itineraries are determined three years in advance by a community-wide vote. Continuous worldwide journeys, with a focus on extended stays of an average three days in port, ensure that Residents have sufficient time to explore their favorite destinations. Unlike most vessels, The World spends nearly twice as many days in port as at sea. Every few days Residents wake up to look outside their window at a new and exciting port of call.

The Beginning

The vision behind The World was to create a way in which travelers never had to disembark. They could sail for as long as they wished from the comfort of their own private Residence. As such, in 1997 a team of experienced professionals gathered and began working on the first ever vessel where people could travel the globe without leaving home. Construction of the vessel began in May 2000 in Rissa, Norway with the Ship departing Rissa on 29 March 2002 for its inaugural voyage. The vision was realized when The World set sail from Oslo, Norway with its inaugural Residents and Crew on board for its maiden voyage which departed from Lisbon, Portugal on 2 May 2002. On 17 May 2002, the vessel was christened in Venice, Italy and on 30 September 2003, the Residents purchased the Ship. In June 2006, the original inventory of Residences was sold out. At present, a select few homes are available for resale.

Ship Designers

Petter Yran and Bjørn Storbraaten designed The World. This Oslo-based team successfully combined nautical elements with clean, contemporary lines, imparting the aura of a private yacht to this magnificent 12-deck Ship, while enhancing an intimacy with the sea that is not available on land.

Environmental Interests

The World is the first Ship of its size designed to burn marine diesel oil rather than heavy bunker fuel, making for a much more environmentally friendly Ship. The World now burns only low sulfur marine gas oil which meets all international and local regulations thus allowing the vessel to call in areas where ships burning heavy fuel are banned. The World was also the first Ship to feature the unique Scanship wastewater cleaning system in which waste is filtered by means of a flotation system. It was supplemented in 2016 with a Wartsila membrane bioreactor treatment system to meet the present wastewater discharge standards. The team on board is constantly identifying new and innovative elements to improve the Ship's environmental footprint such as:

- Reducing single-use plastics including providing water bottle refill stations and replacing single-use plastics with biodegradable products, i.e., food containers, cutlery, cups, etc.
- Purchasing locally as much as possible to reduce the Ship's carbon footprint as well as increasing procurement of organic products such as food items and bath amenities.
- Implementing LED (light-emitting diode) technology throughout the Ship and replacing existing high wattage halogen and incandescent lamps with the latest and more efficient LED lighting technology to reduce energy consumption.
- Capturing waste heat from engine exhaust gases and engine cooling water systems that are utilized to assist in supplementing steam and electric heating, reducing boiler use and overall fuel consumption.
- A dedicated Environmental Engineer is responsible for the prevention of environmental incidents and overall adherence to the Ship's Environmental Management System including training of all crew members. A Health, Safety, and Environmental Officer focuses on working standards as well as the growing environmental regulations.

Moving forward, The World is constantly on the lookout for new innovations and ideas that can contribute to our sustainability objectives. Some upcoming projects include:

- Introducing a shore power system that allows the Ship to utilize shoreside electrical power and shut down its main engines when in port. This allows The World to emit zero emissions in ports that supply renewable energy on their electric grid.
- Adding a new bulbous bow to reduce drag and therefore increase fuel efficiency by enhancing the Ship's hydrodynamics.
- Improving propeller design to increase propulsion and fuel efficiency.

Private Residence Details
